Wells Fargo Bank President, Jim Morrow, Named to MCEDC Board

(Mason City, Iowa) – Jim Morrow, president of Wells Fargo Bank of Mason City was appointed to the Mason City Economic Development Corporation board of directors recently. This appointment comes as a result of the resignation of Mark Holt of Varied Industries Corporation in Mason City.

Morrow is a graduate of Cornell University in Ithaca, New York with a degree in Agricultural Economics and Finance. He is a member of Mason City Noon Rotary, and involved with the United Way, the Mason City Chamber of Commerce and in leadership with his church. He and his wife, Diana reside in Mason City with their two children, Jeff and Jamie, and have served as foster parents for several years. Morrow's family farms in the St. Ansgar, Iowa area.

Jim has over 25 years of banking experience and was named President overseeing operations in Mason City in April 2003.

The Mason City Economic Development Corporation serves the greater Mason City area with economic development marketing and business retention services. The board is comprised of 17 voting members. Seven are appointed by the board of directors, seven are appointed by the Mason City mayor with city council approval, and three are appointed by virtue of position in the community. They are the Mason City mayor, a Cerro Gordo County supervisor, and the current president of the Mason City Chamber of Commerce.
